

Dr Yan Ying is lecturer in Translation Studies and director of the Centre for Translation and Interpreting Studies at the University of Leicester. She edited the first collection of Contemporary Welsh Literature and Art in Chinese translation (a special issue of Foreign Literature and Art) and translated Francesca Rhydderch's prize-winning novel, The Rice Paper Diaries, into Chinese. She also published researches on Chinese American literature and Chinese immigrant writing, and translated Jack Kerouac, Marilynne Robinson, Martin Amis and many others into Chinese.