Section 1.2 - Aggregate fee levels

The University will charge the current Maximum Regulated Fee (MRF) level for Full-time Home Undergraduate, Integrated Masters, and PGCE students for the period of this plan. The MRF is governed by the Welsh Government and the current maximum levels can be found here. Any increase in the FT Home UG and PGCE fee for the period of this plan and future years of the programme will be tied to any increases in the MRF level set by Welsh Government.

Aggregate fees for the whole duration of the programme will depend on the length of the programme (most of the University's UG programmes are three or four years long), and whether or not the programme includes an Integrated Study Year Abroad or an Integrated Year in Industry as part of a Sandwich Programme, and whether the MRF is increased by the Welsh Government, as outlined above.

- The aggregate fee for a programme is the sum of the MRF applicable in each year of study.
 - The MRF applicable in each year may be increased by the Welsh Government during a student's programme, in which case the fee for each remaining year rises accordingly:

Aggregate fee = Year 1 MRF + Year 2 MRF + Year 3 MRF (+ Year 4 MRF, where applicable).

- Where the MRF remains unchanged for the duration of the programme, the formula can be shortened to:

Aggregate fee = MRF × the number of years of the programme.

- Where a programme includes an Integrated Study Year Abroad or an Integrated Year in Industry as part of a Sandwich Programme, that year attracts its own MRF, which is set by the Welsh Government at a lower level than the MRF for a standard year of study. The University will charge the MRF for the respective type of integrated year, which is substituted into the calculation in place of the MRF for a standard year.

Aggregate fee = Year 1 MRF + Year 2 MRF + Integrated Year MRF + Final Year MRF.

- For a one-year full-time PGCE programme:

Aggregate fee = MRF for the single year.

Details of the University's tuition fees are provided on the University website (<https://www.bangor.ac.uk/student-administration/fees/>) and via email communications to all applicants. As the University's prospectus is printed in advance of the start of the relevant academic year, it refers prospective students to the University's website for the latest information concerning fees. The webpage provides a specific section on fees for each academic year, with the fee and access plan published alongside the respective year once it is approved. Any changes to fee levels will be communicated directly to the affected students by email, following consultation with the Students' Union, and the relevant aspects of the webpages will also be updated.

Tuition fees for Home Undergraduates are regulated by the Welsh Government. The University will amend all Home Undergraduate Tuition Fees in line with any alteration advised by the Welsh Government and complies with CMA guidelines in the development of all communications.

Fees for undergraduate programmes offered by the University's franchise partners are determined in agreements with the franchise partners. Where these are offered at less than the MRF, they may be subject to annual review, which could result in increases. The aggregate fee for these programmes is calculated on the same basis, using the fee agreed with the partner for each year of study in place of the MRF.
